

245. N. Charles St., Baltimore.

Epiphany morning

My dear Doctor,

Your kind welcome letter, announcing your approach, is just received.

I thought next Sunday may not be the best for your own particular work, it will be German, it is our appointed day for Foreign Missionary collection.

The Sunday next

Brotherhood of Baltimore, before which a sermon will be delivered, at which most of the clergy will be expected to be present.

I can assure you an opportunity to address St. Paul's, I think, or St. Luke's, in the afternoon. On Monday, if you consist, I want to invite some friends to pay their respects to you & Mrs. Hill, and pass over your own paper the story in detail.

after is promised to Bishop Morris and Oregon.

We shall be delighted to see you and Mrs. Hill on Saturday, and hope you will be able to remain longer than you promise.

Sunday Morning you shall command my palmetto for Athens. Sunday night I would try to arrange for you a joint service, but that it is bespoken for the Church

My train will be under open to you.

You had better take the noon train, which leaves Grand St. Station a little before 12 o'clock, and is due here about half past three.

We shall dine at half past four, or soon after your arrival.

My dearest for me in affectionate regards to Mrs. Holt & family. Remember me cordially to Mr. & Mrs. Coffin, and bid me Yours with great

sincerely
Wm. Beecher
