My dear J. Hill,

I am delighted to see from your letter that Mrs.
Hill & yourself
were so near the Land of her Forefathers,

I trust to hear from Helen that you had reached Lipove
in safety.

I beg to tender
you not only my grateful Thanks, but
of all of us
for your very

Prompt kindness to Andrew in his Hour of Need, and of which he writes by today's Mail.

Capt. W. J. Cathcart Andrew's eldest brother is in Scotland just now, but I have written to him about

the £30, when you make repict he will a
his arrayments
about letting it as soon as possibly can,
and which I have heard about the
the day.
Be so good
write me
from Atherstone
