Dear Dr Hill

1876

Neely is writing to Miss Masson, and I cannot let the opportunity pass without writing a line to recall us to your remembrance, and perhaps you may be induced to send me one of your welcome letters. It is so long since we have heard directly from you.

I have been very ill indeed since our return home, but am now about as well as usual, and we have had a most comfortable winter. The Spring is very pleasant, reminding us of the early Spring days in Athens. I hope Mrs Hill is well this spring, as well as her sister, and Miss Meir.
Please give a great deal of love to each and all from all of us, and with much to yourself believe me yours sincerely

Cornelia Miller
