Dearest Sir!

With great pleasure I received your letter which my beloved daughters brought me.

I thank you very much for all the kindness you have shown to them. They told me how kindly you treated them and I cannot help from loving and respecting you through all my life.

You are right telling me that they have profited very much by the opportunity which they found at being in your institution. You write me also that their education is not finished yet they have much need yet I know it and I try to lead to the happy way. I thank you especially for the Christian education which you gave them.

My wife sends you her regards and to Mrs Hill and Miss Baldwin. Having nothing else I remain your ever loving friend
