My dear friend,

In the present critical state of things, when we are threatened with devastation I beg of you to tell me your opinion of the magnitude of the danger & what would you advise me to do under present circumstances. I have no fear for myself, but we have so many ladies in the house, that I must provide for their security. Is it safe to remain at home? & if not, where can we go? Then the question comes: is it safe to venture ladies in the street in a carriage? Please let me know about this by bearer.

Yours respectfully,
 D. W. Stewart
